DETAILED ACTION

1. Amendment filed October 31, 2006 has been entered and fully considered.

Claims 1-27 are currently pending. The rejections are as stated below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Specifically, the specification does not contain any reference to a "stored marker" as recited in claim 1, and furthermore the specification does not discuss creating links among markers.

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Art Unit: 3691

5. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Specifically, the recitation of “creating/storing” renders the claim indefinite because it is not clear whether the claim language limits the steps to creating and storing, or if the step is limited to creating or storing.

Furthermore, claim 1 recites “being accessible at least in parts to each stakeholder”. It is unclear from the claim language as to what exactly is “accessible”. Also for this reason, the claim language is considered indefinite.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

6. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

7. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention lacks patentable utility. As claimed, the method of claim 1 produces and stores a plan. 35 U.S.C. 101 requires that the result be useful, concrete, and tangible. The method of claim 1 does not produce any useful, concrete, and tangible output because “stored as accessible data” describes the computer generated plan, but does not positively claim the step of “storing”. Examiner respectfully suggests the additional language “storing said computer generated plan as accessible data”.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

8. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

9. Claims 16-20, 22-27 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Thiessen, U.S. Patent No. 5,495,412, as cited in the previous Office Action

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

10. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

11. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

12. Claims 1-15, 21 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Thiessen, in view of Wallman, U.S. Patent No. 6,338,047, as cited in the previous Office Action.

Response to Arguments

13. Applicant's arguments filed October 31, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

14. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993). Furthermore, Applicant's arguments fail to comply with 37 CFR 1.111(b) because they amount to a general allegation that the claims define a patentable invention without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references.

Regarding claim 1, Applicant argues "Thiessen receives data about stakeholders and other information relating to the negotiation in a manner that is different from the process used and types of information collected in the method in claim 1" (Applicant's remarks, 10/31/06, p14). However, claim 1 merely recites "receiving and storing data about a plurality of stakeholders, a plurality of issues, and a plurality of interests, all in relation to a transaction". Since the type of data, and the process used to collect the data is not claimed, these limitations have not been considered in determining patentability over the prior art. Likewise, Applicant's argument that "Theissen does not... provide a process or organize the information for users to evaluate or assess the interests of others involved in the negotiation" (p14) has not been considered because these limitations are not claimed.

Examiner respectfully points out that claim language is given its broadest interpretation which would be reasonable to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of Applicant's invention, in light of Applicant's specification, without reading limitations from the specification into the claim language. As such, while Applicant may have a narrow interpretation of the term "interest", Examiner's interpretation includes the "preferences" as described by Thiessen, and referenced by Applicant (p15).

Regarding claims 16, 22, and 27, Applicant's arguments amount to a general allegation that the claims define a patentable invention without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references.

Applicant has pointed out various advantages of the present invention over the invention of Thiessen, but Examiner is of the belief that the features upon which Applicant has relied are not positively recited within the claim language.

Conclusion

15. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
